LA SIERRA UNIVERSITY
RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA 92515

Dedication

Devotion to progress and expansion, adherence to consecrated purpose and wise tolerance and generosity characterize the man who is largely responsible for La Sierra's coming of age. He who has executed plans for the new library building was also witness to earlier growth—the building of the cafeteria, Hole Memorial Auditorium, Angwin and Calkins Halls. Laboratory equipment . . . clear, plate-glass windows in the dining hall . . . and other "little" things were all cheerfully provided by the man who says "open sesame" to comfort and convenience as well as to expansion of the physical plant. To Karl F. Ambs, then—esteemed administrator . . . but more than that, friend—we offer this 1946 METEOR in DEDICATION.

Welcome . . .

To the great company of men and women who have left the halls of La Sierra College to serve their country, we pay tribute.

From the desert sands of Africa to the coral beaches of the tropics, men and women from La Sierra College have marched forward to victory. These have dedicated their energies and their lives to the eternal principles of democracy. Medals have been won, and lives lost, but the noble parts they have played will bring honors higher than we can give.

Some will never return. Their names will never again be found on the college roster. But some day, God willing, they will respond for the roll call of a much greater organization.

To those who are returning, La Sierra College flings wide its doors. And once again the halls that were so reluctantly exchanged for foxholes in distant lands, resound to the footsteps of those who fought for the ideals that make possible Christian education.

Preface

Regardless of how opinionated we may be, the paramount issue of world thinking is PEACE, not a temporary interim of quietude but a lasting peace as permanent as the stars that shine and as perfect as our idealisms will permit. Whether we are leftists or a little to the right of center, we cannot refrain from hoping that snafu organization and quibbling may be metamorphically transformed into a complete understanding of the hearts of men. One government leader intimates that PEACE hinges on the proper utilization of propaganda from foreign offices, another political peer says that PEACE swings on the disposal of atomic energy, still another proclaims that the demise of war may be assured when certain spiritual values have been given preeminence. Can it be that any of these are shibboleths to peaceful association? He who said, "I came not to send PEACE but a sword," also said, "My PEACE I give unto you." Whether that PEACE, the gift of God, be found in our hearts or whether it be noticeable in the world about us, we pledge ourselves to its promulgation.

La Sierra College has had a large place in your lives.

First, there were college anticipations. These anticipations developed into actual college experiences, and now those experiences will pass into memories.

College buildings, classrooms, lectures, laboratories, or the library should not remain as your most permanent college memory, important as they are. Behind and beyond these there has been, there must be, experiences, lives, personalities, and characters that have touched and influenced your life. Only personality can affect personality; only life can beget life.

Here you have had opportunities to know "Him" who is the Greatest Personality in the world. We hope that your most lasting college memory, your most permanent benefit, will be that here you saw a vision of a larger, purer, nobler life, and that here you received the inspiration and strength to make this vision real.

L. R. Rasmussen

An approach to college life can be on these pathways that terminate at the gateway to the hall of learning. Following these pathways, the student can gain an approach to college life at once beautiful and inspiring.

pathwa

Perhaps it is true that pathways are not generally considered a part of college life. Yet they serve at all hours to bind the campus together and guide eager footsteps in the pursuit of knowledge. Alive with the sounds of scurrying feet today, they will linger silently in memory as having been among the many contributors to friendly school life.

an

This unusual entrance to the spacious Cafeteria characterizes the artistic beauty of Spanish architecture, which is much in evidence on the campus.

In a modern college, there are many buildings other than those dedicated to academic pursuits. Such buildings as the Cafeteria and Hole Memorial Auditorium are symbolic of those campus activities not restricted to the confines of the classroom. These buildings do not make a college, but they do share the life of a student, and in the student, after all, is the making of a college.

Perhaps it is the cool shade of the pepper or it may be the wide expanse of lawn which invites repose in front of Hole Memorial Auditorium.

Comprehend . . . gui de . . . teach

Trained to instill in the youth of today the principles of true education, Christian teachers and administrators are privileged to reflect in their lives the merits of the Great Teacher. Day by day they impart the accumulated wisdom of many generations. As these teachers themselves have been led to COMPREHEND truths of value, so may they, through the GUIDANCE of God, shape the world of tomorrow—and of eternity — through the ministry of their TEACHING.

MARY I. CHAMPION
Dean of Women

You see the deans not in flowing robes and somber faces as for a convocation, but in those attitudes of informality prevalent in the memory of those students spending a portion of college life at La Sierra. With the helpful guidance of these men and women the college student is orientated to college life. Through these offices the student has his most "impressive" contacts with school administration. Their aim is to serve both the student and the college.

Succeed . . . adjust .

With all the attraction of a candy counter for penny-rich children, the College lures prospective students to investigate the courses offered. Those who decide to invest are taught to ADJUST their own needs to the instructions intended to help them EXPRESS citizenship in tomorrow's world. And when their four-year apprenticeship is served, and they are ready to commence that for which they have trained, each is given a calling card to SUCCESS, which only time will evaluate.

It is only natural for students to desire association with others of common interests and similar goals. For this reason many student ORGANIZATIONS have been fostered by the College. Through mutual contact in these laboratories of extracurricular education, students are given an opportunity to DISCUSS social as well as academic problems, and to BROADEN their cultural outlook. Many an individual who has forgotten a classroom lecture will recall with interest a club function.

A. S. B. President Daniel Guild confers with the adviser, Wilfred J. Airey

A. S. B.

Aiming to create loyalty and foster devotion, the Associated Student Body sponsors varied activities: student religious guidance, "Good Form Week," campaigns, mountain picnics and Saturday night socials. Only by the membership of every student could this organization continue to present these advantages.

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL OF ASSOCIATED STUDENT BODY

Howard Weeks, Dorothy Sheldon, Dorothy Martin, Floyd Wood, Kenneth McGill, Daniel Guild, Andrew Peters, Wilfred J. Airey, Ansel Bristol, Muriel Qualley.

Sigma Phi Kappa

The objective of this club is to bring about a united and common interest in the affairs of the women's homes, to encourage an expression of individual ideas, and to promote the development of social graces.

First semester: Kay Neal, President; Carol Dunn, Pat Wilkinson. Second semester: Betty Tome, President; Elaine Bartlett, Joan Loveless.

Mu Beta Kappa

The guiding principle of M. B. K. according to the constitution is to promote profitable and friendly relations among the men of the college through constructive programs and projects of interest and worth. Membership is based on residency in the men's dormitories.

First semester: Ralph Thompson, President; Charles Smith, Roger Coon, Manson Metcalf. Second semester: Duane Bradley, President; Glenn Chadwick, Glen Fink, George Pursley.

Fellowship

In order to receive intellectual stimuli and to foster spiritual development the men of Fellowship are bound together that they may be equipped to serve. These ministerial students refire their visions of man's need and emerge at the end of the year more qualified to inspire others.

Dwight Wallack, President; Kenneth Perry, Floyd Wood, Roy Shearer, Frank Wyman.

I. R. C.

The La Sierra College Chapter of the International Relations Club is an organization characterized by spirited discussions. Topics chosen have a bearing on current problems, and many a theoretical solution is propounded.

First semester: Robert Osborne, President; Eleanore Zimmermann, Virginia Cummins. Second semester: James Wilcott, President; Manson Metcalf, Shirley Leonard.

Commercial

The touring of business offices of our sanitariums and other offices of commercial enterprises has been an impetus to the members of the Commercial Club to encourage meticulous pursuance of business procedures.

First semester: Ella Ambs, President; Peggy Wong, Georgia Day. Second semester: Glen Fink, President; Blanche Wright, Dorothy Liese.

Music Guild

Organized in 1946, this new guild is composed of all students enrolled in the music departments. Such a contribution to enjoyable memories as Enoch Arden by Professor and Mrs. Hannum, was a part of the Music Guild's repertoire.

Ellen Short, President; Omar McKim, William Van Ornam.

Arts and Letters

The Arts and Letters Guild sponsors lectures on literature and occasional field trips to libraries and museums in order to establish deeper aesthetic values.

First semester: Francis Cossentine, President. Second semester: Marquise Wahlen, President; Bertie Lou Kussel, Beverly Freese.

Science

An honor society since its founding in 1937, the Science Club is composed of science majors, and pre-professional science training students who consistently maintain high grades.

First semester: John Koos, President; Hilles Smith, Dorothy Martin. Second semester: Dick Balkins, President; Eugene Heidenreich, Mary Culver.

Filomina

The interest of prenurses is kept alive because they are members of Filomena where frequent contacts are made with nurses from medical centers who discuss the role of the future nurse.

Elaine Lindsay, President; Dorothy Dennis, Velma Reed.

Home Economics

Organized meetings are helpful in Christian home making, the appreciation of gracious manners, and healthful living. During this year lectures and motion pictures, provided a variety of helpful instruction.

Peggy Wong, President; Barbara Tower, Phyllis Wagner

Speech Choir

Vivid and impressive is the memory of those famous selections presented by this large speech choir. Those students comprising its first semester personnel are shown in concert dress.

Teachers of Tomorrow

La Sierra College was the first Seventh-day Adventist institution to organize a chapter of the Teachers of Tomorrow. The purpose of the club is to establish a group of future teachers bound together in a common fellowship.

First semester: Julia Humble, President; Hilda Lambert, Barbara Seaward. Second semester: Florence White, President; Olive Youngberg, Betty Penington.

Sabbath School

From Hole Memorial Auditorium, a few minutes before ten Sabbath morning, come the sounds of familiar advent hymns. Only those who have established the Sabbath School habit may realize how vast a contribution these Sabbath morning meetings can make to one's growth in spiritual grace.

Front row: Effie Jean Potts, Letha Limerick, Vinette Kinch, Alice Bickett, Joan Vander Mei, Gladys Spencer. Second row: Georgia Day, Dorothy Martin, Betty McDonald, Dorothy Sheldon, Mrs. Joyce Digneo, Elmer Digneo, David Jamieson. Third row: C. D. Striplin, L. E. Orchestra

The orchestra has been acclaimed as one of the most outstanding musical organization found in any college on the west coast. This year it reached symphonic status with the first all collegiate ensemble. A concert tour in the second semester climaxes the long hours spent in practice and rehearsal.

La Sierra College Band

Added to the faculty this year was Clarence O. Trubey, conductor of the La Sierra College Band.

Hear ye, Hear ye . . .

Professor Harlyn Abel, and Miss Frances Brown, his assistant, won't guarantee to turn out a "Lily Pons" or "John Charles Thomas" the second from their flasks; but you invariably come out of one of these organizations with a little truer pitch, Oftentimes the real compensation for long hours of mental activity is not found on a glorified report card, but in those activities distinct from classroom and laboratory ASSOCIATIONS. When these are reviewed collectively, they form a veritable picture gallery in the chambers of memory. What cannot be portrayed, however, are the lessons of group ACCOMPLISHMENT and the attainment of social adjustment which PRODUCE characters that are able to meet the world on a sure footing.

Annals

Life begins at . . . College!

The student writes, and having writ, moves on—to the next office. Eight registrations and semesters stand between the Freshman and his diploma. (September 17,18)

How to Win Friends and Influence People

The touch of your hand at the "Handshake" meant so many things: "Welcome to La Sierra," "Why, I'm from ———— too!" "Aren't we lucky to be here!" (September 22)

East meets West: North meets South

The S. S. ASB with three hundred passengers aboard sailed 'round the world in one evening "dropping anchor" in eight foreign ports. After sampling native food and hospitality, she docked in College Hall for a Community Sing. (October 13)

Paper! Read all about the new "Critter!"

5,500 people did when they ordered the Criterion in the Campaign which ended with the cup on the North Side of the campus, permanently. (October 12-29)

of 1946

To the victors belong the skates . . .

Bright smiles and brave hearts combined with Lake Arrowhead sports made Criterion picnic-time a date to remember. (November 1, 1946)

Gold from Their Strings

Melodies by Tschaikowsky, Ravel and Bizet came to life again one Tuesday night when the Golden Strings Octette came to La Sierra. (December 4)

"Take me up to Lake Arrowhead"

That tenth day in December marked the beginning of the second campaign. Freshman-blooded Spartans outdid the "upperclass" Athenians in accumulating Meteor subscriptions. (December 10-January 8)

Like Father — Like Son

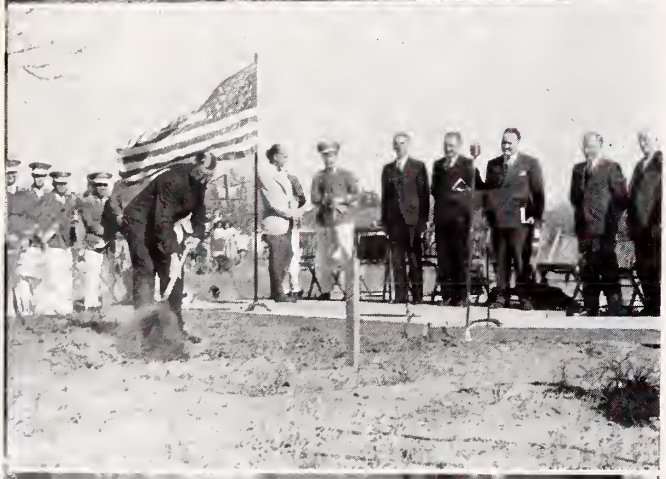
The way to a father's heart is to invite him to a Father-Son Banquet. This was Mu Beta Kappa's fifth. (December 16)

The Air was Filled with Music

During the week devoted to it, campus musicians used their talents in promoting a better understanding of music — the universal language. (December 14-20)

T'was the week before Christmas

And all through the dorm the holiday spirit was growing more strong. This resulted in Christmas parties in Gladwyn and Angwin Hall. (December 19)



"The God of heaven, he will prosper us, therefore we his servants will arise and build."

On January 21, 1946 Elder Hicks dug the first shovelful in the ground-breaking ceremony of the La Sierra Church. (January 21)

The Fog comes on little cat feet

But not always. Mid-term examinations produce a haze all their own. But this too shall vanish. (January 22-25)

On the Trail of the Snow-Clad Pines

Skiing to hearty appetites, tobogganning their way to fun, 150 students made memories at the Big Pines Meteor Picnic. (February 14)

Invitation to 'Fame'

Climaxing Good Form Week was the Hall of Fame Banquet with its theme built around the lives of great Americans. (February 28)

In Groups of Ten We're Out to Win

It was picnic, Catalina, or a journey to Yosemite, your name on a scroll, on a table, on a chair and if you fail to find it there, it was a matter of $500, $100, $25, $5. (March 18-April 7)

Graduation

"I like small colleges that nestle in quiet little towns, and offer students something more than credits, caps and gowns." —Harriet Rukenbrod. (May 25)

Forming a part of each student's routine is his weekly requirement of eight hours' work. The scope of this employment is as varied as the departments vital to the operation of the college. As janitor, switchboard operator, president's secretary, students gain PRACTICAL experience and form a wholesome attitude toward an apron as well as a white collar. Through this daily labor they are enabled to OBSERVE the procedures of departments and ACQUIRE a knowledge of useful occupations.

Business Office

Keeper of the books—Ella Ambs is pleased with the modern accountant's secretary that aids students who "work their way through school" at the Business Office.

P. B. X.

"The line is busy" comes the typical chant from PBX Operator Virginia Cummins.

Registrar's Office

They also serve who only sit and write—grades? petitions? transcripts?—Donna checks those "A's."

Library

The college library containing 15,000 volumes employs a number of students who serve us efficiently. Rose Marie Hamm checks out one of the 125 average issues per day.

Laboratory

Majella Lau and Abbie Kam deliberate, "Staphlococcus? streptococcus? What did she write?"

Monitor

Date night! Muriel Qualley extends Angwin hospitality—one of the many duties performed by the monitors, which include keeping order during study period, and assisting the dean with the records necessary to maintain an organized school home.

Store

It's the hub of college life; friendly manager F. E. Romant contrives to supply collegiates and community with necessities and niceties.

This is it: groceries and pastries to suit every taste are found in these numerous sections.

In step with the times, the modern rack keeps vegetables fresh—it's air conditioned!

Post Office

La Sierra Station, Arlington, California: so reads the address. Postmaster Bickett receives the mail, Daniel Guild assists in sorting it and Ruth Pratt takes it to the dormitories where it's . . .

MAIL CALL!
What is more important than a meal? Mail: it comes twice daily.

Dormitories

Oranges? La Sierra has them! Floyd Wood and Ray Bishop offer Clarence Krohn a "juicy one."

Grounds

Janitors

"Keep them lighted, heated, and clean; that's our motto," explains jovial E. W. Matheson to his crew. And they do a good job, too!

"What will it be — pie, cake, rolls?" A. C. Giddings, father of Mrs. Van Ausdle, has been "rolling them out" for La Sierra College since it's been founded.

Cafeteria

Matron Anna Van Ausdle and dietitian Fonda Cordis discuss banquet plans in the cafeteria. This is in addition to thrice daily meals which are often highlighted by such additions as flowers or "vitamin" cookies.

They're on the spot—a COLD one! Marjorie Hupp and Evelyn Curtis stand inside one of La Sierra's two walk-in refrigerators.

Shop

1946: a year in the machine age. Place: The shop, La Sierra College. Setting: A metal lathe meets its master. Training in woodwork and metal craft as offered in the college shop makes possible things of beauty that are of use forever.

Maintenance

C. L. Martin, maintenance manager, talks things over with plumber Weeks, while the latter's dog "Toby" adds canine comments. All three are well known around the campus.

Chester Budd selects appropriate type for the next Criterion headline.

Receipt books are quickly assembled by the deft hands of Helen Edwards.

Press

Kenneth Nip is the studious type; but he knows about the why's and wherefore's of the College Press. In Manager Kennedy's absence, Kenneth is qualified to answer your questions.

Laundry

"99 44/100% full" grins Benjamin Greening, Canadian.

Pressure brought where it does the most good.

"Won't you wait till the cows come home?"

Farm

Comprising four hundred acres, the farm and dairy provide employment for many college boys. Dairy products satisfy not only the needs of the college but alsc are distributed to Los Angeles consumers.

Time out! Farm Manager Stearns and dog.

Institution of higher learning to wide-eyed eighth-graders, not-so-grim reality to persevering "prep-paraders," camp of basic training for college aspirants, the Academy truly serves a diversified constituency. Students from far paths come together to unite their efforts and aims under the banner of Christian education. PREPARING to meet problems of modern society, these students are DEVELOPING characters that will enable them to ADVANCE in service for the Master.

With the progression of time and the accumulation of a series of events another Meteor makes its appearance. Perhaps this Meteor represents the La Sierra College Preparatory School during one of the most outstanding years in its history. We propose that the contents present our school in its reality, in order that you realize more fully the real value of an education in a Christian school. It seems fitting to record in this section the school memories of '45 and '46; and to the students may the preservation of these rich experiences be fully realized.

Mr. Parker's office is operated by his secretary, Mrs. Joyce Digneo. Patsy Wilkinson answers questions as Merrillyn Jacobson and Virginia Dunham keep the records.

Sophomores

Tradition permits no formal organization of this class; however, a picnic was held at Fairmount Park, Fedalma Ragon and Dorothy Vollmer being the advisers. A sophomore looks forward with pleasant anticipation to the time when he will be a junior or senior, too!

Richard Guthrie puts the finishing touches on a mechanical drawing.

Freshmen

Many freshmen boys choose as their vocational subject printing or woodwork, while the girls usually take a course in home economics. At the right Jack Williams does one of his assignments in woodwork, a class taught by Mr. Toews.

Choir

The Preparatory School choir of twenty-nine members under the direction of Frances Brown contributed to various programs and church services during the year.

Glee Club

Of freshman, sophomore personnel, the Glee Club directed by Frances Brown supplemented the choir and presented highly satisfying numbers.

Band

Directed by Clarence Trubey, the Preparatory School Band was presented in two chapel programs and during the second semester amalgamated with the college band.

P. S. A.

The Preparatory Student Association gave ample opportunity for student leadership in various campaigns, social, and devotional activities.

John Madsen—first semester president
Robert Clark—second semester president

Prep Parade Staff

Editor, Ann Price; Adviser, Fedalma Ragon; Betty Hannum, Opal Johnson, Dorothy Nelson, Moses Chalmers, Henry Barron

Preparatory Meteor Staff

Editor: George Gooch; Adviser, Elmer Digneo; Marshall Horsman, Alyce Kiesecker, Warren Johns, Merrillyn Jacobson, Elaine Johns.

Personality

More than a class organization, this club encourages good grooming, etiquette, and personal charm.

Margaret Priem, president, Lila Gooch, Mildred Cates, Rohna Bane.

Teachers of Tomorrow

Those interested in Christian teaching this year organized an academy chapter. As its sister organization, it looks toward future service.

Lois Johnson, president, James Book, Patricia Murray, Joyce Templeton, Elmer Digneo, adviser.

Quartet

These boys provided inspiration and entertainment in song.

Delmer Glover, Moses Chalmers, Philip Dunham, William Murphy.

Physical

Physical education is an essential part of the student's activities. Lyman Ham directs the Medical Cadet Corps.

Senior Symphony

A singular trio is the Symphonettes bubbling with personality, feminine charm—tunefully correct, and always popular.

Miriam Smith, accompanist, Mary Smith, Alyce Kiesecker, Ann Price.

Master Comrades

Preparing themselves for greater service to other youth is the aim of students studying to become Master Comrades.

Junior Fellowship

The students interested in a closer fellowship with God frequently meet to discuss subjects related to their work as God's messengers.

First semester president, Moses Chalmers; second semester president, Sidney Allen.

Education

Lyman Ham and Shirley Rusche direct a program of campus health education including calesthenics, basketball, tennis and touch ball.

Opal Johnson entertaining scarlet fever. 22. Edson takes a flop! 23. "Why so tall, Richard?" 24, 25, 26. "A" students, Miriam, Joyce, and Dorothy—may their kind increase. 27. "Careful there, Alice, it's cold."

Inform . . . serve . .

present

If the services of business to the average citizen could be incorporated into three words, perhaps the following would pay tribute: INFORM, SERVE, and PRESENT. Students surveying the following pages will no doubt recollect those frequent journeys to commercial centers, not to mention ordinary shopping expeditions. These represent the places where investments were made for fine products, and where courtesy and efficiency were the password. To these concerns we say, Thank you.

Could the leaves of the calendar be replaced and then removed one by one noting the successive deadlines, there would be revealed the names of those who unstintedly gave their counsel to the staff. In those days of feeble beginnings, the frequent suggestions of Jack Cannicott were responsible for some new features of this publication. To the personnel of the Los Angeles Engraving Company and especially to Cathrine Hutchison, for her layout advice, we direct our thanks. Faithfully has the staff labored, forgetting selfish pursuits in order to present this book. There cannot be ascribed sufficient praise to Lester Cushman, who spent so many laborious hours to complete the photography. Laudable mention is extended to the College Press which finalized the efforts of the photographer and journalist. Through the co-operation of the entire staff and such other people as K. F. Ambs, Walter Kennedy, Howard Root, and Inge Ketterer, we are able to give you this volume. Finally, we proffer thanks to the faculty and student body who supported the progress toward the goal of "a bigger and better book in '46." If in these pages you have found pleasant memories, then our parting will be enjoyable.
